

Pham Le Tuan

Military-Civilian medical coordination for smart healthcare

Assoc. Pham Le Tuan, Former Vice Minister of MoH
President, Vietnam Civil - Military Medical Association

The unprecedented COVID-19 pandemic has become one of the major challenges for Vietnam's healthcare system, revealing inadequacies and limitations around care delivery.

Our health services are struggling to respond to COVID-19 and provide people with vital care.

Vietnamese Government needs to act quickly to strengthen the healthcare system so that vital care provision is not interrupted amidst the COVID-19 crisis and beyond.

Digitalisation in healthcare is a global trend and it can be harnessed to support the healthcare system to remotely carry out clinical assessment, diagnostic processes and health monitoring through different online platforms and mobile solutions to minimize or replace face-to-face interactions, which have become unsafe or unavailable.

Application of information technology (IT) in combined military and civilian medicine could be a promising solution for Vietnamese Government to better provide healthcare to Vietnamese population and respond to emergency situations like COVID-19.
